investments in this city, had their first | The Stock Market Opened Stronger and taste of burgoo and their first experience of a burgoo party on the banks of the Blue river last Thursday. Several local capitalists having them in charge and wishing to show them something new under the sun, to them at least, decided upon a burgoo party and Thursday morning they started for the Blue river, bright and early, going out as far as Sheffield on the dummy line, taking carriages there and driving a number of miles up the river to a very pretty shaded spot which was sufficiently secluded to suit the promoters of the party, as one of the essential features of a burgoo party is seclusion. For it should be known to the uninitiated that a burgoo party is a party where, to use the vernacular, "everything goes." It might be well to explain first what burgoo is and what is meant by a burgoo party. There are two definitions of burgoo extant. One is the dictionary definition of the doctringires who would not know burgeo from a horseshoe if they were to meet it in the road. The other is by Senator Vest, and is a definition suggested by an experience of long standing, a more than speaking acquaintance with burgoo. The dic-The dictionary says burgoo is a kind of OATMEAL PUDDING or thick gruel used by seamen and says it is derived from the old English buryum, or yeast, and gawl, which means Without any intention of throwing obloquy on Mr. Webster one is constrained to remark after a careful perusal of the definition that he had never been within a mile of burgoo if that really what he thinks it is. Senator Vest's definition is much better. The senator was seated in the courthouse in this city one day, surrounded, as usual, by a crowd auxious to hear one of his inimitable stories, when the conversation turned to picnics, and some one in the crowd asked the senator what in the world burgoo was.

The senator paused a moment and said: "A native Missourian who doesn't know what burgoo is deserves to be transported to Kansas or lows, or some other state equally benighted, and there live out his life surrounded by Republican-and prohibition. If there is any worse fate than that on this earth I don't know what it is.

who can tell you what burgoo is for the simple reason that no two kettles o burgoo were ever made alike. But perhaps by relating a little incident that happened at a burgoo party that I participated in once I may give you a pretty good idea of what it is. The picnic was held on the Current river, a beautiful stream in the southern part of this state, famous for the clearness of its waters and the swiftness of its current. It was several years ago, but I remember the day as well as if it was yesterday. When I drove up it was quite late and everybody else was on hand. The burgoo was in course of making then, and although I had frequently eaten it, I had never seen it made, and wanted to see exactly what went into it. of the neighborhood who makes the burgoo, and walking over to the big caldron I found him stirring about in a dropped in a piece of chicken, a squirrel, a rabbit, onions, cabbage, parsnips, fresh beef-well, I don't know what else he didn't put in it. Right above him a big tree spread its boughs and on the limb over the caldron was.

A WOODPECKER'S NEST.
While I was trying to engage the old man in conversation-a futile task by the way-right down into the sonp there dropped a young woodpecker. pin-feathers were just sticking out of its wines, and its long neck and head didn't have a feather, while its eyes stood out like goggles. The old man paused stir-ring for a moment as if a little startled; and t en resumed as he remarked, 'Just At least the district court will be stacked in time, just in time!' That's about with a formidable docket when it conthe best idea of burgoo that I can give venes.

The senator's definition gives a pretty good idea of what burgoo is. Anything from the heavens above or the earth beneath that falls into the caldron is, as the old man said, "just in time."

The proper thi g to do at a burgoo party is to fish. Why, nobody knows. No fish are ever caught, but it is considered the proper thing, and on reaching the place the party at once proceeded to easting lines. There were several buckets of nice minnows and for a few moments all was bustle and confusion. About one hour was spent in waiting for the fish that never came, and then lying down on the cool, shaded banks of the pretty stream, they swapped lies of the | Colorado and Santa Fe rall way company, ing all the others and not half trying. The only mishap of the morning, and that could hardly be called a mishap, as it only served to increase the fun, was the falling into the river of the bestdressed man in the crowd. A thorough soaking that didn't do him any harm was

Colorado and burgoo was in course of making, a fire had been built under a big black kettle grass. that looked suspiciously like a soap kettle, although the old man in charge was ready to make affidavit that nothing but burgoo had ever been in it. He first tilled it half full of water and let it come to a boil. Then he put in a panful of bread crumbs. After that meat, fish, vegetables, solids and liquids went in in such confusion and such beaps that there was no keeping track of them. There was plenty of good bourbon in the crowd and everybody was in a good bumor. One of the funniest incidents of the day was the recitation of the INCANTATION SCENE FROM MACRETH. It was given by three of the gentlemen who are noted in city life as being most staid members of the commercial world, and everybody joined in the chorus of "bubble, bubble, tell and trouble; fire burn and caldron bubble."

Knives, forks and plates are interdic-ted at all well regulated burgoo parties. It is a tin cup or fingers or nothing, and by 12 o'clock everybody was hungry enough to dip into the pot with a cup and take the steaming hot broth with a of it, it is in reality a very palatable compound. After dinner the afternoon was spent in fishing, joke telling, laugh-ing and song. Had anyone seen the dignifled visitors from the East it is safe to say that he would not have recognized them as men having the weight and care of millions on their shoulders. For the time being everyone was free from care. It was late in the day when the party broke up and drove back to the railroad after as pleasant a day as was ever spent in the woods. A better way of enterthere is no doubt that the Eastern visitors will remember for years to come the burgoo party on the Blue river.

> Dally Review. FORT WORTH, TEX., Aug. 23 1901.

All merchants have enjoyed a good business to-day. They were well patronized by city and out of-town customers. The surrounding country was well represented to-day, there being a great many country people in the city. They brought and disposed of a great deal of country produce of various kinds, for which they received a good price Those questioned replied, "the country is all right," there being very fittle to complain of. There were a few very little to complain of. There were a few bales of gotton brought in to-day, bringing top prices. Cotton is down a few points from former figures, being quoted at nine and one-half cents to-day. Produce dealers' receipts to-day were fair; adequate for a good demand; prices were firm, and the market closed with very little stock not disposed of. Poultry, butter, eggs and vegetables and fruits were in moderate supply; prices firm, with only slight changes in quotations.

The Cincinnati Price Current says the reduc The Cincinnati Price Current says the reduction in the marketing of hogs in the West the past week is only moderate, the total packing returns indicating $12,000 handled by packers, compared with $40,000 the preceding week and $15,000 for corresponding period last year. From March 1 the total is 6.350,000, against 4.945,000 last year; increase 1,420,000, or 25% ner cent. Prices are generally 10 to 5 cents per 10 pounds higher that is week are and average about $3.75 to $5.75 or leading markets, the better qualities selling a about $3.75 to $4. The enlar, ed offerings of in lifferent quality widens the range in prices. Recipts of hogs at most points show some de erioration in quality, a considerable proper ion of the offerings not being fed into ma u.e condition, hence there is an unusual percentage of shrinkage on such atook. The liberal supply of such grade of hors tends to depress values. The current demand for product a excellent and the speculative interest in future has been of liberal proportions, packers evidently meeting such chils free y.

The advanced price is for corn tend to stimulate confidence in product, especially for future delivery, but it is not clear that the situation and the outlook really justify all that is in many instances expected as to winter trices of product. Present values at Chicago for Jannary are on the basis of about $4.65 for hogs—pork being relatively higher than other leading atticles and lard lower. The experts of hog product for the week were liberal, showing a small gain over corresponding period last year.
